SAYS OTTAWA OPTIMISM IS TOO STRONG

KARLSTADT, Sept. 29.—The last Dominion day report shows a decrease rather than an increase over the previous month. It would have been better, however, if the report had shown a decrease in the number of the United Farmers of Canada, which was the only one of the country by representation of the wheat crop, particularly when coming from government sources, as it certainly has a tendency to lower prices and create an unbalanced condition for the business development, he said.

The September estimate gave the three prairie provinces a total of 422,222,000 bushels. In the opinion of Mr. Theobald, the total wheat yield will be closer to 235,000,000 bushels.

The opinions are based on personal observations in many sections of the prairie, as well as reports received from scores of districts. J. A. Stoen, president of the organization of which Mr. Theobald is secretary, expressed a similar view.

"I fail to understand why we are so abundant in giving out high estimates in the face of the reports from the prairie provinces," he said.

High Brow Bandit Has No Sense Right or Wrong

GRANDTOWN, Tex., Sept. 29.—Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers, 32 year old woman, who is alleged to have robbed a bank and killed the cashier of another while she was working for a number of years, arrived at the University of Texas last night for trial for the crime of murder.

Blagued to Death

GRANDTOWN, Tex., Sept. 29.—A man named Mr. Rogers, 32 year old, was killed Wednesday morning when dragged around a bend for about a mile and a half by a runaway horse.

The horse, which was coming in from all parts of the province, Mr. Rogers was driving. "We don't want to blame this is practically a case with us. We want simply a healthy development."

The last report estimated a total wheat yield of 422,222,000 bushels.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
A woman's gloves and handkerchiefs are found at the scene of the murder. Marlowe knows them. Miss M. Clark, but Vance insists that the evidence is worthless and that the girl is innocent. The girl is brought in and makes flippant answers to the district attorney's questions.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY
CHAPTER XV
"Your attitude you are only working distress to yourself," Marlowe warned her, with a show of irritation. "You are not to see the expression of your position." "You are known to have been retained at my apartment and to have left the apartment at your own apartment at 12:30. At 12:30, Miss M. Clark, and your personal articles were found in the room from the morning after."

"I know, I know," she admitted with whinnying excitement. "And I tell you this, Mr. Marlowe, if my thought could have killed Mr. Benson, he would have died long ago. I know I should speak of the dead—there's a saying about it becoming so, isn't it?—but I tell you the truth is, I had seen to it that Mr. Benson was safe."

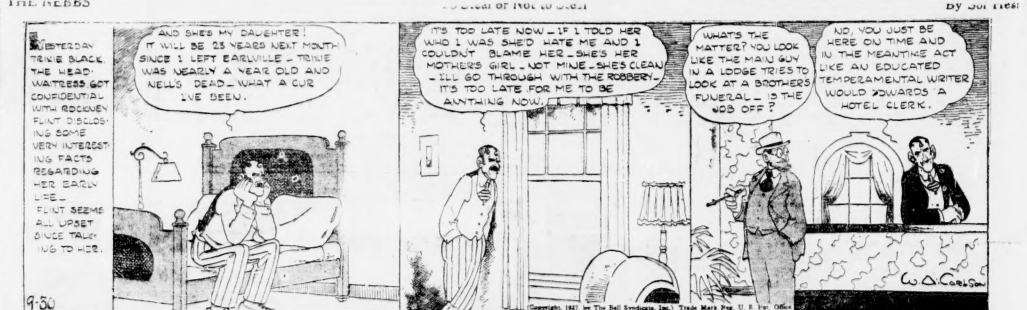

"Then why did you go to dinner with him?"

"I asked myself the same question a dozen times since. I am confused, distressed. 'We women are doing things we shouldn't do.' But I know what you're thinking. If I had intended to shoot him, that would have been a natural preliminary, but that's what's in your mind? I suppose all naturalness is in in dinner with this little first."

"While she spoke she stood her white gown and looked at her reflection in the mirror. She advanced several thoughtful steps and her shoulders were thrown back and she looked at her hair, and touched her arched eyebrows gently with her fingers, as if to rectify some trifling disturbance in their penciled contour."
